

Fabulous Homes Featured in New Seattle Street of Dreams Magazine

August 13, 2008

The premier issue of our Seattle Street of Dreams Magazine offers a very special and unique look inside four remarkable homes in the Seattle area. In our first issue, we are proud to share the fabulous designs, decor, fixtures and views of some of Seattle's proudest homes.

You'll get an up close and personal look at former Seattle Supersonic Nick Collison's stunning Queen Anne showpiece, an incomparable remodel brought back to life by Steve Cramer of Cramer Construction.

Also, you'll marvel at an exclusive Tuscan-style villa on Mercer Island, a $10 million remodel perfected by Vassos Demetriou of Demetriou Architects in Kirkland and constructed by Gregerson Custom Homes, Inc. Finished in stunning style by designers Ronda Moulton (Ronda Elaine Design) and Laurie Chriest (Laurie Chriest Interior Design), this showpiece home is truly unique.

We also showcase a world-class penthouse condominium high atop the Cristalla high rise in downtown Seattle. Owner and architect Blaine Weber (Weber Thompson Architects) surrounds his 1,600 ft. home with floor-to-ceiling glass. The result is an ever-changing postcard of Seattle's best views.

And a final featured treat is a stunning home away from home on Lopez Island in Puget Sound's San Juan Islands. Architect Don Larkin and interior designer Autumn Donovan teamed up with builder Spud Grimes to create an unobtrusive cottage-style home that nestles snugly into the windswept conifers and hiking trails of the island.
